

HARDINGHAM PARISH COUNCIL

Welcome to Hardingham

Please find the Welcome Pack issued by Hardingham Parish Council. We hope you find this helpful.

We are currently updating certain elements of the pack so have simply included some elements which are “work in progress” at the moment. This includes the Parish Plan and the map included at the back of the pack.

A few additional comments to help you interpret the map:

- We are currently trialling an online mapping system. The legend shows some of the features; Village Hall, Bus Stop, Existing Dog Bins etc. Additionally:
 - Public Footpaths are shown in pink
 - Permissive footpaths are shown in green. There is a fairly extensive network of these which are provided and maintained by Hardingham Farms over their land. They do ask that dogs are kept on the lead and that we clear up after dogs.
 - We are currently investigating the provision of some additional dog waste bins across the village and the proposed locations of these are indicated on the plan with a red dot.
 - We have recently had an application approved to install a new flashing speed sign (SAM2) on the B1135 at the commencement of Low Street area to hopefully control speed a little better along this road. This is indicated with a blue dot.
 - The Parish Boundary is shown in blue

A couple of other points of information:

- For those interested, we launched a Facebook site at the start of Lockdown as one of a number of initiatives to keep people in the Village connected and informed. We are hoping membership will grow over time. It is called Hardingham Village – Residents & Friends
- Parish Council Meetings are normally held every two months, in the Village Hall – dates and details are posted on our website:
<https://hardinghamparish.wixsite.com/home> As a consequence of Covid-19, these are currently being held via Zoom, but we plan to review when we can safely return to the Village Hall venue at our next meeting. All of the meetings are open to the public.

I hope that helps, but please don't hesitate to call me if you have any queries or concerns. I also live on Low Street and my telephone number is 07557126721.

With kind regards

Dudley George

A BRIEF HISTORY OF HARDINGHAM

Hardingham is not mentioned in the Domesday Book, but Flockthorpe is. There was an outflyer to the village called "Mantatestone" which today is known as Manson Green and another "Swathing" which is now called Low Street. Between 1066 and 1210 there were two Lordships, the family of De Camois seized the Manor of Flockthorpe, the second was the Manor of Gurneys & Swathing.

In 1210 Flockthorpe became Hardingham. "Ham" is common Saxon name for a small village or settlement.

The Lords of the Manor stayed in the Wodehouse/Kimberley family until 1985 when the previous Lord Kimberley sold it to William Shaughnessey of the U.S.A.

The village acreage is 2418 acres.

The moat, called the Roundabout at Gresham Farm, is estimated to date from 1066-1539 and considered the site of a residence for Sir Thomas Gresham. Looking at a map of Hardingham it can be noted that the Gresham moat is almost exactly the centre of the village and not the Church. The church is the oldest building in the village now.

First mention of St George's Church can be found in papers dated between 1154 and 1157 when Stephen granted the Prior of Wymondham a windmill in Flockthorpe and tithes were paid to the church (See separate sheet for more information on Church)

The Old Hall on the opposite side of the road to the church is considered late 16th century and the village must have originally been round this area, moving at the time of the Black Death to High Common in about 1350.

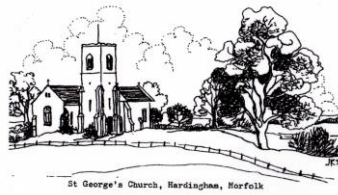

Now the village has hamlets at "Low Street", "Danemoor", "Manson Green", "Nordelph Corner" and "Hackford Road" as well as High Common, where there is a Village Hall on the Playing Field, which was given to the village by the Edwards family after the first world war.

In 1881 there were 522 people in Hardingham, today it is about 200

There used to be 12 farms in the village. Today there are only three farms, Hall farm 1768 acres farmed by the Edwards family, Manson Green farm 500 acres farmed by the Daniels family and part of Station farm 150 acres farmed by Kimberley Farms

There were only 44 acres of woodland in the village, but since 1970 another 64 acres have been planted in small spinneys.

In the past Hardingham had three pubs all now closed, as has the school, the village shop, the railway station, the Smithy, and the Chapel. Hardingham used to have its own Parson, Policeman, Roadman and Postman. All have gone, but still Hardingham retains a rural community spirit, with clubs and societies meeting regularly in the Memorial Hall and the annual fete at the end of June.

ST GEORGE'S CHURCH, HARDINGHAM

Hardingham is a small parish made up of the hamlets of DaneMoor, Low Street, Manson Green, Nordelph Corner, Hackford Road and High Common. Once the township of Flockthorpe included the village of Hardingham. The daughter of the feudal lord, Sir John de Breus who lived at the Old Hall married Ralph de Camois in 1285. The village was at that time probably situated by the church and could have been abandoned during the Black Death in 1350 when many contaminated corpses were buried in the churchyard. However, other factors such as battles with invading Danes may have contributed to the decline of the population. The de Camois family may be considered founders and benefactors of the parish church as the manor was given to Stephen de Camois by Henry I in the 12th Century. First mention of St George's church can be found in papers dated between 1154 and 1157 when Stephen granted the Prior of Wymondham a windmill in Flockthorpe and tithes were paid to the church. The connection with the de Camois family continued for about 250 years. Other notable family benefactors have been the Earls of Arundel (15th Century), the Earls of Kimberley and, in the 20th and 21st Century the Edwards family of Hardingham Hall. The tower is the oldest remaining part of the church building, the upper part being added in the 14th Century. The nave and the window in the West Tower are 13th Century and there is considerable other window tracery which can be dated over various periods. Chequerboard and flint stonework can be seen on the east end of the church. A Sedilia, a double arched piscina and an aumbry, all probably medieval, are in the wall on the south side of the east end of the church.

The font is medieval but its oak cover was presented in 1932 in memory of Mercy Walley, the then Rector's wife. Coloured glass windows have been presented since the early part of the 20th Century by various members of the Edwards family. The West window commemorates Major William Edwards VC and was completed in 1912.

Considerable repairs and renovations have been made to the inside and outside of the church, but it may be possible still to see near a recess (covered by a memorial tablet on the south wall) a medieval table tomb. An old double heart stone nearby may be the burial place of the hearts of two crusaders who died in the Holy Land (two crosses in low relief). Also in evidence were the remains of a sundial on the south west buttress (7' up), these have perhaps been obliterated by the latest renovations to the tower (1984). In the porch on the right of the door is a base for a Holy water stoup. A niche in the flint works is a possible position of a statue of the patron saint, St. George. A Bell made by John Brand was placed in the tower in 1649.

A mound of earth to the south is known as St. George's mount, so called by the Rev. Walter Whiter, who annually entertained the community on St. George's day, April 23rd, when a group of young people danced around a tree reciting verses.

Around this tree of trees we go in pageant, guise and glee,
Which drank with joy our mystic streams
All Hail! The Holem Tree (Holm oak)
Here rose the tree in days of yore, thus will the Bard recount
And there the ancient bounds are traced
Here stood St. George's mount.....

Over 50 species of wild flowers were recorded on a day in July 1984

New porch gates, made by local cabinetmaker Peter Halstead and paid for by fundraising and donations were added in 2000 to celebrate the Millennium.

In 2004 some of the pews were re arranged behind the font to create an area for socialising after services, especially Christmas and Harvest Festival. In 2011 an extension was added housing a kitchenette and a toilet. Whilst the building work was being carried out two complete tiles and several pieces were found, now believed to be medieval. The organ was restored in 2018.

A model is usually provided for those who like to do figure drawing and portraits, or you can bring flowers, still life or photographs from which to paint. Yearly full membership is £40 and there is an associate membership for those who cannot attend regularly. This includes refreshments.

About three times a year there are workshop days with visiting tutors teaching in a variety of media. These days are from 10.00am – 4 pm with lunch and refreshments provided by members, the cost is approximately £15.

We have an Annual Exhibition, in the Lincoln Hall, Hingham. Outside painting trips are organised in August and visits to London Exhibitions and other social events are also held.

For further information please contact Hilary Hodges on 01362 850365 or hilaryhodges@btinternet.com

Do you enjoy reading? If so you may want to think about joining us at Hardingham Book Club.

We are a small group who meet on the last Thursday of each month at the home of one of our members. Quite simply we all read the same book, then meet to share our thoughts and opinions. We don't engage in 'high brow' discussion, you don't need a degree in English literature!

We set our book list for the year by each member suggesting a book, or books, that they have enjoyed or read good reviews for. We read a variety of genres, mainly fiction but some non-fiction.

There is no pressure to host club meetings. Those who do provide tea, coffee and biscuits.

In January we go to a local pub for our annual dinner and take a wrapped book for a 'lucky dip'. In February we will each talk briefly about the book we have read.

The book club gives us the opportunity to explore new authors and genres, widening our reading experience.

HARDINGHAM FETE

Each year we hold an annual fete, traditionally on a Sunday at the end of June, to raise funds and socialise

One of the secrets of the fete's continued success is the variety of traditional games and stalls to entertain the whole family. Whether it is having a go on the tombola, testing your skills on the skittles, darts or coconut shy or just sitting relaxing over a cup of tea it is always a pleasurable experience in such picturesque surroundings.

Both the plant and cake stalls are usually sold out in double quick time. There are raffles, games, children's races and a super white elephant stall making sure that most fete goers happily wander home with a bargain or two. The marquee houses the flower and produce show, an open show you are encouraged to enter. One of the best aspects of the whole afternoon is meeting up with new friends and joining in the fun whatever your age.

This is a village effort to raise funds for two village amenities. One is the Church, a building that has stood for longer than any other in the village –a part of history which will not survive unless care is taken of it. The other amenity is the memorial hall, a place where people come together and are part of the community. As its name indicates it is also a memorial to those from the village who gave their lives to safeguard freedom. It too will not survive without constant maintenance and care.

Preparations for the fete start in earnest in February with a public meeting in the Memorial Hall – look out for the date in Group News. We are always looking for new ideas and helpers. Would you be prepared to help –manning or helping on a stall, putting up the marquee, baking a cake or in any other way?

If you are unable to help we do hope you will still come along and enjoy yourself.

HOMEWATCH

A Homewatch scheme operates in Hardingham with co-ordinators in various parts of the village. See details below for your co-ordinator and current vacancies

The aims of Homewatch are

- to reduce local opportunities for crime thereby deterring would-be thieves and vandals
- to establish a community spirit so that everyone can contribute towards the protection of their property by mutual co-operation and communication
- to inform the co-ordinator or the police of any suspicious activity

The co-ordinators are the contact between you and the police, messages regarding local crime and possible scams are sent to the co-ordinator for dissemination to residents. You in turn can inform the co-ordinator of any suspicious behaviour you notice and they will pass this on to the police, or you can contact the police directly.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR COMMUNITY MORE SECURE

By being a good neighbour, and keeping an eye out for anything suspicious you can help to make Hardingham a more secure place to live in. These are some of the things you should report:

- Strangers knocking on front doors or peering through windows then disappearing round the back, or loitering suspiciously
- Strangers hanging around the playing field and approaching children
- Open windows in houses where the owners are out or on holiday
- Strangers trying car doors
- Anything that you believe is suspicious

DETAILS ARE IMPORTANT - Whenever you pass on information, remember accurate descriptions of suspected people and vehicles, etc, will save time and confusion

This is the information the police will need

- An exact description of what you have seen
- The time
- The place
- The person (s) involved: approximate age, height, sex, build, unusual characteristics, clothing worn and any other distinguishing features
- The vehicles involved: registration number (even part of this number might help), make and model (if known), colour and direction of travel

Your Local co-ordinator is:

Mrs Heather Johnson, White Cross Farm, Sandy Lane 850443
If you would like to be a co-ordinator please inform the Parish Clerk.

If you would like to receive the information sent to the co-ordinators by email please inform Heather Johnson and this can be arranged.
